

Yankee Freedom Camping Information

Camping at the Dry Tortugas can be an amazing experience. However, due to the remote location there are a number of guidelines and restrictions that you must follow in order to have a safe and enjoyable time. When you make a reservation for camping transportation on the Yankee Freedom III you will be required to sign an acknowledgement that you have read and agree to the rules and restrictions.

PLEASE BE AWARE THAT OCCASIONAL INCLEMENT WEATHER, MECHANICAL PROBLEMS OR OTHER SITUATIONS NOT WITHIN OUR CONTROL may require us to cancel a trip. If this happens, we will do our best to reschedule your visit to the Park but you need to have alternative options for lodgings for the planned duration of your time at the Park.

For the same reason we cannot guarantee the exact return date of campers from the Park and you should plan your return flights accordingly. If under any circumstances you choose to return to Key West by seaplane some or all of your camping gear may have to be returned later by vessel and you will be responsible for paying any costs associated with shipping your gear to you upon its return. Yankee Freedom III is not responsible for any additional lodging, transportation, food, or other costs incurred by you should your originally scheduled outbound or inbound trips be cancelled or delayed.

Due to space constraints, the Yankee Freedom III can only transport up to 10 campers per day for a maximum stay at Ft. Jefferson of 3 nights. Reservations are required for both outbound and inbound trips and you must return on the scheduled day. You must confirm your return dates at the time of ticket purchase and with the captain on the outbound trip.

No more than three kayaks or small canoes (no greater than 17 ft in length and 100 lbs. each) may be transported on any trip. The cost of transporting kayaks is $20.00 each, round trip.

Yankee Freedom III Camping Gear Limitations

Despite the remoteness of the Park and the “primitive” nature of the facilities you will find that Less is More – the Less you bring the More time and energy you will have for enjoying the Park. Each camper is limited to the amount of gear, food, water, and ice that will fit into one Storage Bin, one Bag (backpack, duffel, or bundled gear) and one Cooler per person. Size and capacity limitations for each type are shown on the next page. You must supply your own containers.

The weight limit for the Storage Bin and Bag combined is 60 pounds. There is no weight limit for water and ice but you must be able to carry and lift your own Cooler. Any gear not fitting this configuration will not be allowed on board. ALL gear will be inspected before loading; the list of restricted items is included below.

National Park Service Information on Camping

The National Park Service has produced pamphlets related to camping and kayaking at the Dry Tortugas. These and other topics are available as Adobe pdf documents and can be downloaded at the following URL:

We also encourage you to read through the information on camping on the NPS website. Be aware, however, that some of the restrictions listed above are specific to what is allowed onboard the ferry and may not be true at the Park itself – but since you are taking the ferry you will need to observe the restrictions specified above.

Camping Procedures and Restrictions

OUTBOUND LOADING

You must be at the Ferry Terminal by 6:00am the morning of your trip with your gear! We cannot accommodate late arrivals.

When loading your gear on the vessel in the morning, please ask crew members about proper placement. Crew members will be pleased to assist the loading of gear if they are finished with morning preparation duties but you must be able to lift and carry your own gear without help.

All coolers need to be kept outside of the main salon under the bench seats. Please ask any Crew member for instructions. Remember, you cannot consume any alcohol from your cooler while aboard the Yankee Freedom III, as we have a liquor license. Glass containers are forbidden.

After your gear is loaded please proceed to check in. Upon arrival at the Park you will be required to attend an orientation briefing with a Park Ranger before disembarking. Please listen to the arrival announcements for the location of the briefing.

SETTING UP CAMP

Do not attach anything to a tree. Campground trees and shrubs are crucial for providing shade and windbreak. Help protect this valuable vegetation. Do not attach ropes, hammocks, tents, laundry lines, or any other materials to campground trees. All camping gear must be free standing.

The eleven campsites are available on a first come, first served basis. However, the Park Service reserves the right to designate camping sites to visitors of the park.

Space is limited. Each of the regular campsites contains a table and grill. Three tents and six campers are the maximum allowed per campsite. All tents must remain within ten feet of your table. Be prepared to share the limited campground area with others and remember that flexibility is the key to a successful experience.

If a ranger is unavailable to assign you a site, look for a table with a stenciled number. Only those tables with numbers are assigned to campsites. Should you find all regular sites occupied, you must share the overflow area with other campers.

The Overflow Area is a grassy area located near the regular campsites. Tables and grills are provided, but they must be shared with other overflow campers. Note: as campers leave, you may move to a regular site if one becomes available.

The Group Site is located between the regular sites and the Overflow Area. The Group Site is normally available only for groups of 10-40 campers and must be reserved in advance. The site contains grills and two tables and is large enough for 12-15 tents. Groups of 10 or more campers arriving without a reservation will not receive exclusive use of the Group Site.

During periods of heavy use, the Group Site may be used for an overflow area, but only on unreserved nights. Any unreserved group choosing to camp in the Group Site during overflow periods must relocate to the Overflow Site by 10:00 AM on the day the site is reserved.

WHILE CAMPING

Quiet Hours. Please be considerate of others. Radios and other loud noises are precisely what many visitors have come to the Dry Tortugas to escape. Please observe the quiet hours from 10:00 PM to 6:00 AM. The use of bright lanterns is also discouraged during these hours.

Whatever you take to the fort you must bring back. This includes garbage. You will be issued heavy duty grey trash bags on arrival and told where to put them for pickup by Yankee Freedom crew. Use only these grey bags for your trash.

Please Note: The Dry Tortugas National Park and Fort Jefferson has a rat population that has been known to get into camper's food and other provisions. Please pack all food in airtight containers to discourage their access to your provisions.

KAYAKS

The Park has produced a safety requirements document that must be read and followed by anyone kayaking at the Park. You can download a copy from

<https://www.nps.gov/drto/planyourvisit/paddlesports.htm>

FISHING

See <https://www.nps.gov/drto/planyourvisit/sport-recreational-fishing.htm> for information on fishing at the Dry Tortugas

SNORKELING

Snorkel gear can be provided to campers for the duration of your stay by the Yankee Freedom III upon arrival at Ft Jefferson or you may bring your own personal gear. Snorkel gear is not available from the National Park Service.

RETURN LOADING

Campers must have all gear on the dock (NOT left in camping area) by 10:30AM on the day of departure from Ft. Jefferson to load on the boat. Equipment must be packed and cleaned of sand before re-boarding. Please keep with you items you will need for the day. Garbage bags should be taken to the area designated in your camping orientation.
